

ARES

Greek name Ἄρης

Latin name Mars

Name in your language

Parents Zeus and Hera

Role god of war

Home Mount Olympus

Attributes helmet, sword, shield

Pets boar, vulture, wolf, woodpecker

Ares did not miss a single chance to fight. After all, he was the all-mighty god of war, an unstoppable warrior. He was defeated only once. It was love that was his undoing: more precisely, Aphrodite, the marvellous goddess of beauty and love. Ares became Aphrodite's lover, even though she was married to his brother Hephaestus, the skilful god of fire, metal crafts, and volcanoes. And there was more: Hephaestus was the sword-smith who forged Ares' indestructible weapons. Unfortunately for the two lovebirds, the titan Helios caught Ares and Aphrodite in the act of adultery. He immediately reported the news to his friend Hephaestus. Check out Hephaestus' ID to find out what the ingenious god contrived to punish the two lovers...

