

Katerina Volioti, "Entry on: Argos Tells Stories from the Mycenaean Period in the National Archaeological Museum [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο (Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο)] by Kalliope Kyrdi, Evi Pini", peer-reviewed by Susan Deacy and Dorota Mackenzie. Our Mythical Childhood Survey (Warsaw: University of Warsaw, 2018). Link: <http://omc.obta.al.uw.edu.pl/myth-survey/item/313>. Entry version as of November 24, 2024.

Kalliope Kyrdi , Evi Pini

Argos Tells Stories from the Mycenaean Period in the National Archaeological Museum [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο (Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο)]

Greece (2008)

TAGS: Achaean Acropolis Agamemnon Argos \(Dog\) Bronze Age Cassandra Egypt Homer Linear B Odysseus / Ulysses Phoenicians Pylos Syria Tiryns Troy

Courtesy of the Publisher. Retrieved from epbooks.gr (accessed: July 5, 2022).

General information
Title of the work	Argos Tells Stories from the Mycenaean Period in the National Archaeological Museum [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο (Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο)]
Country of the First Edition	Greece
Country/countries of popularity	Greece
Original Language	Greek
First Edition Date	2008
First Edition Details	Evi Pini & Kalliope Kyrdi, Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο], Short Museum Guides [Μικροί Οδηγοί Μουσείων (Μικροί Οδηγοί Μουσείων)] (Series). Athens: Papadopoulos Publishing, 2008, 32 pp.
ISBN	9789604129164
Genre	Illustrated works, Instructional and educational works

Katerina Volioti, "Entry on: Argos Tells Stories from the Mycenaean Period in the National Archaeological Museum [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο (Ο Άργος αφηγείται istories από tī mykynaīkī epochī sto Ethnikó Archaialogikó Mouseío)] by Kalliope Kyrdi, Evi Pini", peer-reviewed by Susan Deacy and Dorota Mackenzie. Our Mythical Childhood Survey (Warsaw: University of Warsaw, 2018). Link: <http://omc.obta.al.uw.edu.pl/myth-survey/item/313>. Entry version as of November 24, 2024.

Target Audience	Children (target reader: 6+)
Author of the Entry	Katerina Volioti, University of Roehampton, Katerina.Volioti@roehampton.ac.uk
Peer-reviewer of the Entry	Susan Deacy, University of Roehampton, s.deacy@roehampton.ac.uk Dorota Mackenzie, University of Warsaw, dorota.mackenzie@gmail.com

Katerina Volioti, "Entry on: Argos Tells Stories from the Mycenaean Period in the National Archaeological Museum [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο (Ο Άργος afiigeítai istoríes afó ti mykynaikí epochi sto Ethnikó Archaiologikó Mouseío)] by Kalliope Kyrdi, Evi Pini", peer-reviewed by Susan Deacy and Dorota Mackenzie. Our Mythical Childhood Survey (Warsaw: University of Warsaw, 2018). Link: <http://omc.obta.al.uw.edu.pl/myth-survey/item/313>. Entry version as of November 24, 2024.

Creators

Kalliope Kyrdi (Author)

Kalliope Kyrdi studied Law and Pedagogy at the University of Athens, and has worked in primary school education. Kyrdi has been responsible for cultural matters in the 1st Directorate of Primary Education, Athens, since 2007.

Source:

Profile at the epbooks.gr (accessed: June 27, 2018).

Bio prepared by Katerina Volioti, University of Roehampton,
Katerina.Volioti@roehampton.ac.uk

Evi Pini (Author)

Athens-born Evi Pini studied Archaeology at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. Pini has been working for the Greek Ministry of Culture since 1990, specialising in children's educational programmes.

Sources:

Information about the Author, see here (accessed: June 26, 2018).

Katerina Volioti, "Entry on: Argos Tells Stories from the Mycenaean Period in the National Archaeological Museum [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο (Ο Άργος afígeítai istoríes apó tī mykynaïkī epochī sto Ethnikó Archaiologikó Mouseío)] by Kalliope Kyrdi, Evi Pini", peer-reviewed by Susan Deacy and Dorota Mackenzie. Our Mythical Childhood Survey (Warsaw: University of Warsaw, 2018). Link: <http://omc.obta.al.uw.edu.pl/myth-survey/item/313>. Entry version as of November 24, 2024.

Bio prepared by Katerina Volioti, University of Roehampton,
Katerina.Volioti@roehampton.ac.uk

This Project has received funding from the European Research Council (ERC) under the European Union's Horizon 2020 Research and Innovation Programme under grant agreement No 681202, Our Mythical Childhood... The Reception of Classical Antiquity in Children's and Young Adults' Culture in Response to Regional and Global Challenges, ERC Consolidator Grant (2016–2021), led by Prof. Katarzyna Marciniak, Faculty of "Artes Liberales" of the University of Warsaw.

Additional information

Summary

The book is a guide to the Mycenaean antiquities in the National Archaeological Museum in Athens. The first page offers background information about a museum visit for parents and teachers.

From page 4 onwards, the guide to the Mycenaean past begins with defining the temporal and geographical context. Readers are presented with a general narrative about the Achaeans arriving in mainland Greece. At first, the Achaeans practiced agriculture and animal husbandry, before becoming richer through trade in about 1600 BC (p. 5).

A reference to the word “myth” appears on page 8. Until the 19th century, people thought that the Homeric account of mighty Mycenaean kingdoms was all a myth. Heinrich Schliemann, however, discovered the rich tombs at Mycenae, proving that the Mycenaean world existed in time and space.

From page 9 onwards, we read about Mycenaean museum exhibits. Argos, a dog who lives in the Mycenaean gallery, greets the children.

Children are prompted to observe the details of Agamemnon’s mask, of swords, and of other luxury items (pp. 11–14), and think about function and materials, rather than art. Multiple interpretations are encouraged. A fresco showing a Mycenaean lady could be a depiction of a rich woman or a goddess (p. 15). Subsequent pages cover frescoes, writing, defence, and music, and present iconic images of the Mycenaean past, such as a helmet from boars’ tusks (pp. 18–21). Children learn about elite individuals.

Some activities at the end of the book, however, bring Mycenaean material culture closer to daily life (ancient and modern). On page 23, we have comics-inspired dialogues between real people, that is, traders. Other interactive activities include the study of Mycenaean decorative designs, of writing, of the acropolis at Mycenae, of a route from Pylos to Mycenae, and of sword hunt scene (pages 24–30). The book closes with answers to questions, with a bibliography, and with detailed captions for all illustrations.

Analysis

This book about the Mycenaean past makes some reference to Homeric myths and traditions.

Contextual information reminds us of history textbooks, even though we are in prehistoric times. We have a list of key Mycenaean dates, ranging from the tombs at Mycenae (1580–1550 BC) to the end of the Mycenaean kingdoms (1100 BC). Interestingly, the illustrators show these dates on a slab that resembles an inscription from later times, perhaps Classical or Hellenistic.

The narrative is interspersed with standard keywords, such as “civilisation”, which could appeal to adult readers by reminding them of traditional schoolbooks in their childhood. The (historical?) overview continues with a focus on economic matters that guaranteed prosperity: seafaring; trade; and craftsmanship. Inevitably, a decline followed from the late 13th century BCE onwards, after the Trojan War (p. 7). The underlying idea is that civilizations rise and fall.

Objective knowledge, as exemplified by Schliemann’s and his followers’ excavations, is juxtaposed with the possibility of fantasy in textual accounts. The term “myth” is equated with what does not hold true, by contrast to archaeological and historical facts.

The authors provide background information for key terms and ancient figures, such as “acropolis” (p. 6) and “Pausanias” (p. 8). Yet, some ancient figures, like “Cassandra”, Priam’s daughter (page 8), are mythological, and this is not quite fully acknowledged. To appreciate Cassandra’s mythological status, readers need to combine what they read about her on page 8 with information on page 7, where it is explained that ancient people preserved memories of the Mycenaean world in myths that were passed from generation to generation.

Information in a box enlightens us that Argos was Odysseus’ faithful dog, and that Odysseus was a mythical king. Argos’ mythological connection is made explicit here, blending the real with the imaginary in children’s minds. And yet, another piece of information, appearing in a separate box just below that about Odysseus’ dog, is about the word “argos”, which means shiny in ancient Greek. Once again, there appears to be an emphasis on objective knowledge. We are not reminded of Argos' Homeric role when we notice the dog's presence in pages 9 to 22. Rather, the dog appears to exist as a real entity, helping children to focus their attention. On page 18, in particular, Argos tells children that a white dog in a fresco from Tiryns is a drawing of himself. Argos' homeland, Ithaki, has been forgotten here. Also, Argos reminds readers of talking animals in children's literature and of real pet animals that frequent public buildings.

The authors encourage children to think imaginatively. Each museum exhibit, we are told, bears a secret message in a secret language about the past (page 10). Whether the authors refer to object biographies remains unclear. In the section with interactive activities, some traders hold a dagger and a helmet (p. 23), like those in the museum. Here we can visualise object biographies, and how people other than elites handled remarkable pieces of craftsmanship.

Representations of ancient artefacts are very close to the originals. The colours are bold, and with good reason. Children could contrast, for example, the bold blues in the book with the faded and cracked surfaces of fresco fragments in the museum. Text appears in various colours, such as black, blue, red, and green on page 25. Any reader is drawn into the book, compelled to flick through and enjoy the art of text and image.

Teamwork is encouraged throughout the book. On the inside cover, students are asked to fill in their name and whom they visited the museum with. It is commendable that a museum visit is understood as a shared experience, since children are made to think creatively about the exhibits and communicate their thoughts and ideas with others.

Classical, Mythological,
Traditional Motifs, Characters, and Concepts

Achaean Acropolis Agamemnon Argos \(Dog\) Bronze Age Cassandra Egypt Homer Linear B Odysseus / Ulysses Phoenicians Pylos Syria Tiryns Troy

Other Motifs, Figures, and Concepts Relevant

Animals Gender Gender, female Gender, male Heritage History Knowledge Learning Society Talking animals

Katerina Volioti, "Entry on: Argos Tells Stories from the Mycenaean Period in the National Archaeological Museum [Ο Άργος αφηγείται ιστορίες από τη μυκηναϊκή εποχή στο Εθνικό Αρχαιολογικό Μουσείο (O Árgos afigeítai istoríes apó tī mykynaïkī epochī sto Ethnikó Archaiologikó Mouseío)] by Kalliope Kyrdi, Evi Pini", peer-reviewed by Susan Deacy and Dorota Mackenzie. Our Mythical Childhood Survey (Warsaw: University of Warsaw, 2018). Link: <http://omc.obta.al.uw.edu.pl/myth-survey/item/313>. Entry version as of November 24, 2024.

for Children and Youth Culture

Further Reading Information about the book at epbooks.gr, published September 5, 2008 (accessed: July 27, 2018)

Addenda The book forms part of a series of 6 Short Museum Guides that appeared in print from 2008 to 2010.

