Creators

John Dougherty , b. 1964 (Author)

John Dougherty was born in Larne, in Northern Ireland. He is a writer of children's books. In the 1990s and early 2000s he was a teacher at Hillbrook Primary School, in London. He has written a number of series of children's picture books and readers, usually with comic themes, and some with mythical or fairy-tale elements, including the Bansi O'Hara series about a girl with connections to faery folk; picture books on retellings of folktales, such as Finn MacCool and the Giant's Causeway, Twice Upon a Time, The Story of Sir Dave (drawing on Arthurian legend), and adaptations of Shakespeare plays such as A Midsummer Night's Dream and The Tempest. He has also written a trio of books about Zeus (Zeus on the Loose (2004), Zeus to the Rescue (2007), and Zeus Sorts it Out (2011)). He lives in Stroud, Gloucestershire.

Analysis

This is an example of comic intrusion fantasy, in which the mythical elements intrude into the real life of modern characters. Zeus's traditional irascible nature, association with lightning, vengeance, and wilfulness are deployed to comic effect, in a story that provides a quick snapshot of well-known elements of Greek mythology. Zeus to the Rescue also provides a comic introduction to the story of Actaeon catching Artemis bathing, and to the attributes of Artemis as well. Diana/Artemis is appropriately haughty, and her girls-only policy is applied to the classroom scene. Some of the uncomfortable aspects of Zeus's different attempts at courtship are glossed over, given the age group of the target audience, but the general impression of the Greek gods being unruly, capricious, and vengeful is conveyed to comic effect in contrast with the mild boys, Charlie and Alex. Zeus's masculinity is sent up through his feminised attire (bath towel).
